R. F. Remington, of Hartford, who leased from Mike Mazzola the store at No. 225 Main street, and the brick building in the rear to be used as a garage, has not yet been able to take possession of the property. Some months ago the property was leased to Abraham Goldstein, for use as a tailoring shop. Goldstein was notified to vacate July 1st, after the new lease had been signed by Mazzola but Goldstein still occupies the building. Mazzola through his attorney, Patrick J. Deane, has brought a summary process suit against Goldstein and the case was to be heard by Justice of the Peace Charles Dean Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. When the attorneys interested, one of whom was Attorney Samuel B. Harvey, for Goldstein appeared before Justice Dean, the case was adjourned to August 1st. Goldstein was then turned over to Justice of the Peace Frank H. Pons and the hearing will take place this (Monday) morning at 10 o'clock.

The civil suit of the Peoria, Bakery Corporation of this city, vs. Victor and Mary Reebing also of Willimantic to recover a bill for groceries, etc., purchased between January 18 and April 2 of this year, was to be heard Saturday by Justice Dean. By agreement of counsel this case was continued until Saturday, August 6th, at 2 p. m.

Tighe, August 22 to September 8th; Edward Bombria, September 8 to September 19th; Charles Reynolds, October 24 to November 1st.

Napoleon Lamendin will appear before the police court this (Monday) morning charged with drunkenness and breach of the peace. He was arrested by Officer Lariviere Saturday night in an alley way on Church street.

A delegation from Anne Wood Elderkin chapter, D. A. R., of the American Revolution, attended the services held at Manchester, Saturday when a memorial was unveiled and dedicated by Orford chapter, D. A. R. The memorial was then turned over to the town.

John L. Leonard of No. 241 Prospect street has sold his house and property at No. 253 Prospect street to Christopher Leka of this city. The property is a most desirable one, the house containing four rooms, other buildings being a garage and a greenhouse. The frontage on Prospect street is 140 feet and the property in depth is an equal number of feet. Mr. Leka is to make some alterations to the property before moving in. Mr. Leonard and family recently vacated the property and moved to their present home.

The Boy Scout troop of St. Joseph's parish is to hold regular meetings on Friday evening, except the first week of each month, when the meetings will be held Wednesday evening.

Charles H. Brown, Charles S. Hyde and Edgar M. Warner, jury commissioners for Windham county are to meet this (Monday) morning at 11 o'clock at the office of Edgar M. Warner, clerk of the superior court, to examine the list of EYES TIRED?

If your eyes are tired and overworked; if they itch, ache, burn or smart; go to any drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and use to bathe the eyes from two to four times a day. You will be surprised the rest, relief and comfort Bon-Opto brings.

Note: Doctors say Bon-Opto strengthens eyesight 50 per cent in a week's time in many instances.

JEWETT CITY

Local flower lovers are taking note of one of the handsome flowers that bloom here this season. It is described as a plant, commonly known as butterfly weed, there are a few plants near the Sheeluck switch, one or two showing along the Shore Line tracks, between Groton and Midway.

Few native plants add more to the beauty of the midsummer landscape than this gorgeous butterfly weed, with its bright orange flowers. It is a native of the roadside, its root used to be added regularly to the Gerret store of herbs as a sure cure for pleurisy. It is a milk-weed, and tradition says that the Indians ate the leaves boiled with butter and meat and made a sort of crude soup from the stalk.

A Jewett City man, while in New York during the hot spell, was much interested in the street baths given to the children. At Lexington, Mass., he saw a 50th-street, those hot afternoons the sight of hundreds of kids bathing under the hydrant pressure, was novel to say the least.

Charles H. Phillips, lumberman, Plainfield, and Bird S. Smith, building supply dealer, East Weymouth, Mass., have opened a lumber yard, with Joseph Duff, manager, on Atlantic avenue. Lowest prices on cut and dressed lumber. No stockroom on Duff property.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Matt and son of Groton, spent Sunday at Dr. G. H. Leonard's. Mr. Matt is recovering from a broken leg.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Haskell entertained Friday Mr. and Mrs. Seward of Worcester, Mass., and Mr. Randall of London, England. Mr. Seward is secretary of the Royal Worcester Corset Company, of Worcester.

Rev. J. A. Wood leaves today (Monday) for the south, where he will remain until September. His church has given him this vacation, at his request. He will supply the pulpit of one month, LeRoy Fielding, of Norwich, will supply which he will furnish.

Mrs. Minnie Johnson and her daughter Doris are visiting relatives and friends in Baldwin, L. I., and Brooklyn, N. Y. The visit also see Mr. Johnson's son, Walter, who is on the staff of the U. S. Navy, and who is in the U. S. Navy.

Four Jewett City people are in Colorado, cards having been received from Mrs. D. J. Phillips at Denver and O. P. Miller and William Driscoll, at Manitou.

The annual Legion-Auxiliary has sent out invitations to the members of the Legion, whom they will entertain at the close of their meeting this (Monday) evening. Old fashioned games and dancing with refreshments are on the program. A novel form of selecting prizes is expected to cause much speculation.

The annual Quilmbaum-Mystic picnic was held Thursday at Wyassop Pond, the trip being made by auto truck. Those taking part were: Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Hubbard, Misses Gileva and Edith R. Hubbard, Mrs. Frances Allen, Miss Phoebe Wilcox, Mrs. Horace Frink, Miss Mary Abbie Davis, Mrs. Martha B. Stinson, Miss Phoebe Stinson, Mrs. John F. Noyes, Emily P. Denison and Mrs. J. A. Schoonover. As usual an excellent dinner was partaken of at noon and the party returned home in the late afternoon.

Rev. William A. Miller of Westbury conducted the service Sunday at St. Mark's church.

Roger Schute of Philadelphia was a recent visitor of William Johnson of Hartford in the guest of Hamilton Fish.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Paige and family have returned to their home in Springfield, Mass., after a visit to relatives here.

Rev. and Mrs. H. K. Everaull of Great Haven are guests of Mrs. F. T. Rhoad. Mr. Everaull occupied the pulpit of the Congregational church Sunday morning in the absence of Mr. Rhoad.

Mrs. John B. Lewis has returned from a visit in Lyme.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Jackson and family are visiting in Ashbury Park, N. J.

An enjoyable community picnic was held at Yawrook on the Fourth.

The entertainment given in the chapel Saturday night was a success.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Heavy orders for tire fabric received at the week end by the Connecticut Mills company means that all of the looms of the plant will be put into operation as quickly as possible, and that the present production. The latest set of orders will keep the plant going at its full weaving capacity for several weeks and he fore these orders are completed the prospects are for more large orders.

Following the reopening of the Good-year plant Tuesday of last week, this good news was taken as indicating an improvement in the tire fabric situation and will be keenly appreciated in the town of Killingly, whose prosperity has been advanced by the development of this industry within its borders.

Representative Elbert L. Dashi called attention Saturday morning to the fact that the Connecticut legislature rejected in the closing days of the session, the bill that would have reelected fishermen to take out a license. No license is required for fishing in Connecticut waters and none will be at least until after another session of the general assembly.

However, a license is required to fish in Rhode Island lakes and streams and Connecticut fishermen who visit Rhode Island for fishing purposes are liable to be taken out a fishing license in that state. A part of Lake Chabamauque, near East Killingly, is in Rhode Island.

PUTNAM

A thunder storm of unusual severity swept over Putnam early Saturday morning leaving in its wake buildings damaged by lightning, street flooded, clogged drainage pipes, gullied banks and beaten down gardens. Beginning at two o'clock with occasional rumblings of thunder that gave indication of what was coming, the storm increased in intensity, until between 7 and 8 o'clock it raged at its fullest. For more than an hour the lightning flashed almost incessantly, the crashes of deafening thunder came upon the other, and rain and hail beat down in torrents. Gradually the storm wore off, and city officials, railroad employees, and telegraph and telephone line men hurried about the city preparatory to repairing the damage caused.

As a result of the storm, one of the busiest men in Putnam Saturday was Frederick Dumas, commissioner of streets. From all parts of the city came reports of washouts, of clogged gutters and miniature floods. All of these had to be given immediate attention. In order to make the storm-swept street passable as quickly as possible, Mr. Dumas put extra workmen on the job, and by noon the worst places had been repaired.

Mayor Albert W. Fox, chairman of the city highway committee, and other members of the city council traveled about the city supervising the repair work and doing all that they could to get things back to normal condition.

Woodstock avenue from Marshall to Green street was covered with dirt and gravel brought down by the torrents that turned the avenue into a river during the worst parts of the downpour. Under the Front street bridge the gutter outlets became clogged, and the street and trolley tracks under two feet of water. The railroad tracks at the bridge on the north side of Front street were cut almost completely away. A gully ten feet deep, and as many feet across was cut by the rush of water from the north end of the street, and the water was carried into Front street and deposited. At one point the sidewalk was covered with a three foot drift of this sediment, and the tracks of the company were covered four inches below the muddy surface.

A large force of railroad employees set about cleaning up the damage, and by Saturday night had practically completed the task. A siding of the New Haven railroad was undermined, but this was soon repaired.

Main street in front of the Victory theatre was under a foot of water after the storm had passed, but city employees soon cleaned out drains, and the water followed on through the natural channels. The damage by washouts on Oak Hill, Grand street and other high spots of the city was not great. Mayor Fox, commenting upon this after the storm, said that many of the streets in these sections of the city have been filled this year for the first time, and that the water did not carry away the dirt street as has happened in years past. The oil served as a binding that prevented washouts.

While the shower was at its height several places were struck by lightning. The worst damage was done at the Grove street greenhouses and the adjoining barn and home of the manager, O. B. Hermanson. Here three bolts of lightning struck a barn simultaneously, splitting the roof, splintering rafters, mangling the side walls, and sending a shower of timber crashing through the glass roof of the greenhouse. Nearly all of the large panes of glass were shattered. After striking the north end of the house, Mr. and Mrs. Hermanson were in the kitchen when the bolt struck. A ball of fire came from the room, jumped to the gas stove, pulled out the piping and finally grounded. The telephone wire was burned in two, and the transmission box on a nearby pole was completely demolished.

The lightning, were aside from doing damage that is in the neighborhood of $400, played a few pranks and cut some capers. In the back yard it dug a hole a foot deep bringing to the surface fifteen rings that have been buried many years ago. Mr. Hermanson had no idea that they were there. He also entered a tin shed splintered a cigar box containing nails, located the bottom out of a large water jug, and tore the fronts from three boxes of tacks that were on a shelf. The boxes themselves were not moved a particle.

Scott's boarding house on Main street was also hit and set on fire. The fire department was called, and the blaze was soon out, with practically no damage. In going to the blaze, the truck from the Union square fire station was forced to plow through the floods, street below the Congregational church.

At the home of E. L. Kelley, on Seward street, a pine tree was struck, and the bolt jumped to a guy wire used in holding a vine in place. It followed the wire to the house where it was attached, ripping the wire from the nail to which it was tied. No damage was done.

A bolt entered the John A. Dady silk mill and put out of order the motors which furnish power in running the plant. Because of this the mill did not operate Saturday. The Putnam Woolen company plant was also struck with but minor damage.

At the Manassett mill, building No. 4, the basement was flooded with five inches of
